

A GEORGIA WOMAN'S ADVICE.

FOR CATARRH AND BRONCHITIS.

Savannah, Ga.—"After a severe attack of malarial fever I contracted a cold which resulted in a catarrhal sore throat and bronchitis. I used various kinds of cough and cold remedies which upset my stomach, but did not reach the seat of my trouble. I acted upon the advice of a visitor and began to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, with very remarkable results. The soothing action of the first bottle on my throat and the good it did my cough encouraged me so much that I did not stop its use until I had taken a second, which fully cured the cough and other troubles besides giving me strength, as I was in need of a tonic to enable me to recover from the effects of the chills and fever."—Mrs. I. F. FROSTMAN, 414 35th Street, West, Savannah, Ga.

The best time to cure a cough is when it starts. Ordinarily, a few doses of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a cough at the beginning. But even when the cough is deep-seated and the body is wasted by emaciation, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will in most cases effect a permanent cure.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery today from any medicine dealer; it is a powerful blood purifier, so penetrating that it even gets at the impure deposits in the joints and carries them out of the system. Depend upon this grand remedy to give you the kind of blood that makes the skin clear, the mind alert, the vision keener, and puts ambition and energy into the entire body. You will not be disappointed. For free advice or free booklet on blood, write Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

KEEP CLEAN INSIDE

It's the Only Sure Road to Health and Happiness.

You wouldn't go to your office in the morning without washing your face and hands. And yet inside cleanliness is of vastly more importance to your well being and ability to do your work than produced by soap and water. Ninety-five per cent of all diseases have their origin in the digestive tract. Jacob's Liver Salt is the best system cleanser. It will make you "fit" for the day's work. 25c. TANGO

THE hardest, toughest corn yields readily, easily and quickly to the touch of Tango. Don't cut or scrape at it; you may cause blood poisoning. Just touch it—that's all—with Tango. The first touch relieves the pain. Three or four nightly touches, and presto! the corn is gone, leaving a soft, pink toe.

WALKED TO RICHMOND TO ATTEND REUNION

ARTHUR POPE MURRAY, Civil war veteran, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who walked 500 miles to Richmond to attend reunion.

Grizzled Civil War Veteran, Who Tramped 500 Miles to See Comrades Again, Passes Through Atlanta

"I feel a little trampled," admits Arthur Pope Murray, veteran, who walked from Murfreesboro, Tenn., to Richmond, Va., to attend the recent reunion, and who passed through Atlanta Thursday, en route back to his home by easy stages.

The veteran, who wanted so badly to see his comrades of the sixty again, that he walked 500 miles over two mountain ranges, is frail looking and of slight stature.

"I went into the war before I was sixteen," he explains, "and the hardships must have stunted my growth."

There were two veterans who walked to the Richmond reunion from distant points. The other was George W. Sherman, of Forsyth, Ga.

"I don't understand that Georgian," jealously remarks the Tennessee veteran.

"He told me that it took him thirty days to walk to Richmond, but I heard him tell a crowd of people that he left home on the 4th of May—that was about the 28th of May—and I don't see how he can live thirty days."

"It took me nineteen days to make the walk."

During the four years of the war Mr. Murray was with Kemper's battery, the Alexandria Light Infantry. The veteran hiker is a native Virginian, and says his was one of three families which settled where Alexandria now stands.

Returning home he is visiting various battlefields, and is being "passed" by the city wardens from place to place. Thursday City Warden Tom Evans furnished him transportation to Chattanooga.

As he was leaving the warden's office, Mr. Murray glanced at the headlines of a newspaper. "Those fellows in Europe are not doing any fighting," he said, "why, in the Civil war, we got close together."

PLANS TO STOP THEFT OF MILITARY PROPERTY

Adjutant General Nash Asks Co-operation of County Sheriffs

Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash is determined to put a stop to the many thefts of national guard uniforms, shirts and hats, and has mailed out notices to all the county sheriffs in Georgia urging that they make it plain to the public that it is not only a violation of the federal laws to steal military equipment, but that it is an equally grave offense for any person to sell, buy or wear such equipment, and that persons who make such purchases in good faith are not only liable to prosecution in the federal courts but can have no title in the property bought.

There have been many thefts of military clothing from the armories in Georgia, says General Nash, and it has not been an infrequent thing to see persons in no wise connected with the militia wearing the uniform hats and shirts, and in many instances the full uniforms.

General Nash says that recently a United States deputy marshal, while on business in a north Georgia county, came upon a farmer plowing in a field who wore a khaki uniform with the buttons and other insignia still attached. This uniform was inscribed with the marks of Company K, Fifth regiment, of Atlanta. The deputy marshal made the farmer strip right in the field and took the uniform from him and brought it back to Atlanta. No case was made against him because he had bought the clothing from some one who had gone through north Georgia with a quantity of such equipment and which this person offered for sale at very low prices.

ONLY A FEW CAN GO.

Those who are so fortunate that expense does not have to be considered are now going to health resorts to get rid of the impurities in the system that cause rheumatism, backache, swollen, aching joints and stiff, painful muscles. If you are one of those who cannot go, yet feel that you need relief from such pain and misery, try Foley Kidney Pills. They restore the kidneys to healthful activity and make you feel well and strong. Sold everywhere. (Advt.)

THINKS NIGHT PROWLER WAS HIT BY BULLET

Two Men in Charles A. Henson's Back Yard Routed by Pistol Shots

Shots fired by Charles A. Henson, 34 Millidge avenue, at two supposed burglars in his back yard about 1 o'clock Thursday morning not only routed the burglars, if such they were, but judging by a cry uttered by one of the men, wounded one of them, said Mrs. Whitaker, a visitor at the Henson home.

She and Mrs. Henson, who is ill, were awakened by a noise in the yard's all the county sheriffs in Georgia urging that they make it plain to the public that it is not only a violation of the federal laws to steal military equipment, but that it is an equally grave offense for any person to sell, buy or wear such equipment, and that persons who make such purchases in good faith are not only liable to prosecution in the federal courts but can have no title in the property bought.

RICH'S Series of New Sales "Direct from New York"

The Silk Chief Returns From New York With the Newest Summer Silks--
Silks Worth at Retail $18,000 Are to Sell for $10,500

The Silks You Have Been Asking For Are Here at a Fraction of First Prices

WITH the greatest May Silk Sale in our history and depleted stocks behind us, our buyer went to New York in early June to see what he could find.

He Has Come Back With Lavish Assortments of Stylish and Staple Silks at Prices Incredibly Low

Because the New York importers and selling agents are winding up their season, and they were glad to favor their largest Southern customer with their surpluses and overlots.

In the aggregate, the silks form the most notable collection of timely silk bargains we ever offered in any summer. Look here:

$2 Thistledown Taffeta $1.29

PUSSY Willow Taffeta is a patented name for a popular silk. Thistledown taffeta resembles Pussy Willow in weight, quality, finish and texture.

As far as we can determine one silk is as good as the other—it's a case of a rose smelling as sweet under another name. Thistledown taffeta is soft and supple, with the rich, pliant feel that attaches to a silk that is pure all through.

By reason of its splendid draping qualities, Thistledown taffeta goes hand in hand with Fashion for street and evening gowns. Luckily, we have this taffeta in black, white and every wanted street and pastel shade, 40 inches wide. Worth $2 a yard, for $1.29.

Plenty of silks for out-of-town customers. Write for samples.

$1.50 Wash Silk Shirtings 89c

SILK wash silks, but not alone for shirtings—they are equally smart for dresses, waists, blouses, lingerie, petticoats and underwear.

BECAUSE in addition to the smartest stripes you have ever seen in silk shirtings, here are the prettiest pastel shades in pink, lavender, rose, helio, etc. Imported silks, every yard, of a fine, firm quality that will sail through the tub suds a-smiling. Turn, now, from the solid colors to look at the stripes. Did you ever see such beauties?—the same smart patterns that you find in the highest grade shirts for men. Broad pencil and blazer stripes, too, for women's wear—black on white, gold on white, navy, brown, rainbow, handit stripes and others that will sail through the tub suds a-smiling. Turn, now, from the solid colors to look at the stripes. Did you

$3.50 Georgette Crepe at $1.29

A gossamer fabric of Queenly beauty. In high favor for fall, but unsatisfactory deliveries from France force the importer out of business. We took his entire stock.

FABRIC poems spun by fairies in golden moonlight—bewitching weaves of delicate tracery—a painter's fancy made manifest. But words are cold to convey the subtle beauty of these gorgeous crepes. Here are floral effects that rival nature in artistic colorings; here are satin stripes in bewildering beauty. Here, again, are Tartan and French plaids in gayest colorings. Then there are printed stripes, and geometrical patterns, and scroll and floral designs. All printed on imported Georgette Crepes that would retail for $3.50 a yard. Choice $1.29, 40 inches.

$1.50 Rajah Shantung 98c

SHANTUNGS are of two kinds—that made of pure thread silk and that made of chaff silk. This shantung is made of pure thread silk, hence it will wash and not fray nor become "gummy."

RICH and aristocratic looking—one of the most popular silks we know for motor coats, sports wear and summer suits and dresses. Natural or white. 36 inches wide, 98c.

$4 Silk Corduroys $1.69

COTTON corduroys 32 inches wide are selling at 75c a yard. Here is an all-silk corduroy—with all the grace and beauty conveyed by silk—at $1.69. Less than twice the price, because this is 40 inches wide. We cannot conceive a handsomer fabric for coats and wraps. All black or white with a neat black stripe.

59c & 69c Kimono Silks 48c

THE ever-staple kimono silks in a bewildering assortment of characteristic kimono patterns. Colors and designs to match your temperament—moody greens; vivacious blues; cheery reds; sombre black and lavenders; cool, attractive white and light colored grounds. Bestworn with flowers, Japanese garden scenes, etc.

85c & $1 Silk Foulards 59c

We can't mention the manufacturer's name, but it's the best known foulard house in America. THE foulards, therefore, are proof against showers and water spots. What is more to the point, the patterns are in the ever-staple navy blues and black with white dots in every size from pin to coin dot.

$3 Swiss Chiffon Taffetas $1.39

THE importer is going back to Switzerland not to return until after the war. He cleared his shelves in our favor, hence this superb silk bargain.

WITH all the power of our pen we emphasize this as the greatest silk bargain of the year. Consider the facts! Taffetas are the one sure reliance of Fashion. Taffetas have been approved by the Paris dressmakers—taffetas are the scarcest silk in the market today.

—Yet here are taffetas—finest imported Swiss Chiffon Taffetas, at less than half price. Sensational! Yes; doubly so, because the silk is 40 inches wide, soft and supple, and is here in all these desired shades:

Battleship Gray	Green	Black
Belgian Blue	Brown	White
Copenhagen Blue	Nile	Flesh
Chasseur Blue	Sand	Pink
Reseda Green	Rose	Salmon

Black & white, too, remember, and only $1.39.

$1.50 Marquissettes 89c

INASMUCH as net dresses are in high vogue, these sheer silk marquissettes should sell in a jiffy. Bordered with self-colored satin stripes. Pink, white, maize, lavender, rose.

Crepe de Chines 89c

A PLUMP weight all-silk crepe de chine in a rather complete line of colors. No black or white. 40 inches.

$1 Crepe de Chines 69c

FLESH color and pink crepe de chines for waists, corset covers, etc. 36 inches.

$1 Black Silks at 59c

PALETTE DE SOIE—a soft black silk of the messaline family. Deep, firm body and rich, lustrous finish. Yard wide.

$1 Black Crepe at 39c

TWO pieces of a crinkly silk wool and crepe. 40 inches wide.

$1 Fancy Silks at 63c

A MISCELLANEOUS lot of silks, including Roman and fancy stripe messalines; solid color gabardines, serges, etc. 36 to 38 inches.

$1 Silk Failles 63c

THIS popular silk in about every desired color and shade except black, white and navy blue. 36 inches.

$1.50 Silk & Wool Poplin

THE suppleness and style of 89c silk joined to the strength and service of wool. It's a happy union, resulting in a superb fabric for all manner of street dresses. Black and leading colors. 40 inches.

59c Shedwater Chiffons

THE lowest price we have 29c ever known on solid color chiffons of this quality. Twenty-eight full pieces, embracing black, white and almost every desired shade.

$1.50 Fancy Silks 89c

Here are the sought-for stripes, plaids and checks in attractive array.

HAVE you looked for shepherd checks in black and white or blue or white? Have you sought in vain for the blue or black Pekin stripes? Would you like a smart Tartan plaid or a rich French or Scotch plaid? Well, all here in this sale in fine qualities of taffeta. Yard wide, too, and only 89c.

$2.50 Crepe de Chines $1.19

A FIRM plump weight, all silk crepe de chine with wide self-colored awning stripes in the popular navy blue and black. 40 inches.

$3 Olga Crepe $1.89

OLGA Crepe has the beauty and richness of crepe de chine with the weight and finish of a charmeuse. Combining the functions of both silks, Olga Crepe is the fabric ideal for mourning and traveling dresses or for any occasion that requires a handsome black silk. Black only. Note the extreme width, 46 inches.

$1.50 & $2 Chiffons 79c

A WONDERFUL range of fancy chiffons in stripes and floral effects. Some of the stripes are on colored grounds and are handsomely moiré; others are white grounds bestworn with field flowers, sprays, large roses, etc. Almost any kind of fancy chiffon one could desire for blouses, draperies and trimmings.

Governor Slaton, Mayor Woodward and Dr. Huff Welcome the Visitors

With an invocation by Rev. C. O. Jones, address of welcome from Governor Slaton, Mayor Woodward, Dr. M. D. Huff and a response by Dr. N. A. Tesque, the forty-seventh annual meeting of the Georgia State Dental association convened Thursday morning in the auditorium hall of the Piedmont hotel. Immediately following, Dr. E. A. Tigner, of Milledgeville, president of the association, delivered an address, the event of the morning, in which he urged that the dental colleges of Georgia connect themselves with the state university and similar high grade colleges. Dr. Tigner said:

"I recommend that our association, to secure departments of dentistry in Emory and the state university, say to the authorities that we desire a connection with them. Such a course if acted upon will add another large department to our universities and will give them a favorable comparison with the great state universities of the north."

A committee was named to consider the matter and take such steps as necessary to gain the desired recognition. After a report from the secretary, Dr. D. M. Zirkle, the meeting adjourned until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

At the second session several interesting papers were read. Dr. F. E. Roach, of Chicago, spoke on "Periodic Dentures." Dr. A. P. Daniel, of Rome, on "What Should Be Taught in the Dental Colleges," and Dr. T. P. Hinman, of Atlanta, on "Filling of Root Canals."

Dr. Theodore Blum, of New York, before the association a paper on "Conductive Anesthesia." The convention will run through Saturday. Prominent Atlanta dentists on the program are Drs. Robin Adair, S. L. Silverman, Williams, Goldsmith, Hinman, Hughes, Mott and others.

The entire top floor of the Piedmont hotel has been converted into an exhibit auditorium, with half a hundred exhibitors, manufacturers of dental supplies, furniture, tooth paste, etc. Many of the booths are attractively arranged with feature exhibitions, all are interesting, and between sessions are thronged with visiting dentists and their wives, several hundred in number.

"THE WHITE TERROR" AT SAVOY AND THE ALPHA Movie Teaches Powerful Lesson on Treatment of White People

Atlantians who read Samuel Hopkins Adams' novel, "The Clarion," will be particularly interested in "The White Terror," the imp drama which is the attraction at the Savoy theater Thursday and will be at the Alpha next week. "The White Terror" has received the endorsement of the local Anti-Tuberculosis association, for while it is in no sense an "educational film," it teaches a powerful lesson on the right way to treat tuberculosis. Its plot is similar to that of "The Clarion," dealing with a quack medicine manufacturer and a newspaper's bitter fight to better the conditions of a typical American community.

THE WINDOW LOOK IN

Privilege and Paving

A street's repaved. No car line is on it. The city pays one-third of the cost—for the pavement to be used by the general public. The property owners pay the two other thirds, because their investment is enhanced by the improvement.

Another street's to be repaved. There's a car line on it. The property owners get together and agree. They secure the city's approval. Then we're notified of what's been decided. We're told to pay for so many feet of the pavement selected by others: 11 feet if the car line's single track, 18 feet if it's double. The city and property owners share in three parts the portion of cost that remains.

We know that often our quite permissible interest in the cost and other details of paving is overlooked through no deliberate intent.

Sometimes our expression of that interest is not welcomed.

In a few instances it may be met as an intrusion, as if we are privileged unduly in being on the street at all.

We submit that isn't entirely fair. We pay much to the public for the privilege of earning its nickels—but we pay it in specific form, as franchise fee, as tax on our gross revenue. Paying charges buy no privilege. They buy nothing but pavement.

We're not reluctant to spend money wisely. We're not obstructive of public improvements.

We are entitled, by plain right, to at least a voice in the discussion when it concerns money we must spend.

CONVICTS ARE PRAISED FOR CONDUCT AT FIRE

Only One Man Escapes and Many Show Courage at Bellwood Blaze

Although a splendid opportunity to escape was offered 209 convicts at the Bellwood avenue camp Wednesday night, when the main barracks burst into the ground, a report Thursday morning showed that only one man was missing.

The report was made at a meeting of the county commissioners to decide on rebuilding the camp. It was agreed to put up a large concrete structure in place of the old building. At the meeting there was much comment on the bravery displayed at the fire by several convicts and the remarkable way in which the men, all negroes but nine white trustees, marched out of the building as if they were so many pupils at a school fire drill.

"I never saw anything quite so courageous as the action of J. C. Simpson, a young white convict who was a trustee in the hospital ward," said Commissioner Oscar Miller. "The hospital was in a blaze, but he insisted on darting into the flames and smothering the flames out with a blanket. Firemen tried to stop him, but he tore himself free and penetrated the fire time after time."

Simpson's bravery so impressed the commissioners, all three of whom arrived at the fire about ten minutes after it started, that Commissioner Miller took him to supper at a Marietta street restaurant afterward.

Another white convict, Eube Moger, a self-confessed pickpocket from Philadelphia, braved the flames in order to haul out supplies from the sewing room, where he was a trustee.

And a negro convict, whose name was learned, displayed remarkable courage when he mounted to the roof of the building and through a stream of water on the flames. He leaped out of danger just a second before the roof saved him.

The fire broke out at the camp about 10 o'clock. The burned building was in the form of a great square, barracks connecting with the kitchen, commissary, hospital and other offices. The convicts had just filed in from the day's work and were seated at the supper table.

Warden W. H. Girardeau and Superintendent of Public Works W. E. H. Egan were at the camp, and were the first to smell smoke. They went outside the camp, just in time to see a great sweep of smoke envelope the building, as if a fire had caught and was spreading. They followed it around the structure. A moment later the roof was ablaze.

The convicts were ordered into the open and taken to a nearby field, where they stood quietly until the smoke could chain them together in the darkness and heavy smoke it would have been easy for them to make their way out of the camp. One or two did try it, but all were caught save one. The others were taken in patrol wagons, automobiles and special street cars to other camps, the police station and the county jail for the night.

The fire was saved. The trustees of the commissary decided to place 160 of them in the machinery shed at the Bellwood camp, a new frame structure, which with a stable containing 117 horses, to be approved by the county board, will be distributed among the other camps. It was stated that the fire will be the most appreciable decrease in the work on county roads.

The commissioners passed resolutions of thanks and praise of the bravery of the fire department, the city and county police, the convicts, trustees and themselves and private citizens who helped fight the fire. It was stated that the firemen from the station on Marietta street reached the scene five minutes after the alarm was turned in by their sturdy work prevented what might have been an even more disastrous conflagration.

As it was the barracks, valued at $25,000, was a total loss, but insurance of $25,000 was carried. The commissioners referred to the public works committee the matter of a new building. It was generally agreed that a $250,000 concrete structure will be erected on the old site. The committee will report its plans to the board of commissioners at the next meeting in July.

H. Hansell defeated J. A. Seiden, 5-4.

By 2 o'clock all matches in the third round of play in the championship of the Southern title golf tournament had been completed. The results of these matches left but one Atlanta player, Perry Adair, still in the running for premier honors.

Adair, Scotland Monday, according to a cablegram received by Robert Mitchell, treasurer of the General Petroleum company, from Andrew Weir, a British oil financier. Weir's cablegram, which was made public today, conveyed no news of the fate of the steamer's crew.

The vessel was of 6,000 gross tonnage. It held a charter from the Bank line but was rechartered by Weir to the British government.

Heavy Losses Inflicted

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 16.—(Via Wireless to London, June 17.)—The following official statement was issued tonight at the Turkish war office:

"Our artillery has caused the enemy heavy losses at Ari Burnu.

"Our white convicts, Eube Moger, a self-confessed pickpocket from Philadelphia, braved the flames in order to haul out supplies from the sewing room, where he was a trustee.

And a negro convict, whose name was learned, displayed remarkable courage when he mounted to the roof of the building and through a stream of water on the flames. He leaped out of danger just a second before the roof saved him.

The fire broke out at the camp about 10 o'clock. The burned building was in the form of a great square, barracks connecting with the kitchen, commissary, hospital and other offices. The convicts had just filed in from the day's work and were seated at the supper table.

Warden W. H. Girardeau and Superintendent of Public Works W. E. H. Egan were at the camp, and were the first to smell smoke. They went outside the camp, just in time to see a great sweep of smoke envelope the building, as if a fire had caught and was spreading. They followed it around the structure. A moment later the roof was ablaze.

The convicts were ordered into the open and taken to a nearby field, where they stood quietly until the smoke could chain them together in the darkness and heavy smoke it would have been easy for them to make their way out of the camp. One or two did try it, but all were caught save one. The others were taken in patrol wagons, automobiles and special street cars to other camps, the police station and the county jail for the night.

The fire was saved. The trustees of the commissary decided to place 160 of them in the machinery shed at the Bellwood camp, a new frame structure, which with a stable containing 117 horses, to be approved by the county board, will be distributed among the other camps. It was stated that the fire will be the most appreciable decrease in the work on county roads.

The commissioners passed resolutions of thanks and praise of the bravery of the fire department, the city and county police, the convicts, trustees and themselves and private citizens who helped fight the fire. It was stated that the firemen from the station on Marietta street reached the scene five minutes after the alarm was turned in by their sturdy work prevented what might have been an even more disastrous conflagration.

As it was the barracks, valued at $25,000, was a total loss, but insurance of $25,000 was carried. The commissioners referred to the public works committee the matter of a new building. It was generally agreed that a $250,000 concrete structure will be erected on the old site. The committee will report its plans to the board of commissioners at the next meeting in July.

LAW LIBRARY FAVORED FOR THE COURT HOUSE

Commissioners Ask for Authority to Appropriate $5,000 for Purpose

At the request of Burton Smith, representing the Atlanta Bar association, the Fulton county commissioners, of whom S. B. Turman is chairman, passed a resolution Thursday morning asking the Fulton representatives in the state legislature to introduce a bill authorizing the commissioners to appropriate $5,000 for the purpose of founding a law library in Fulton court house, with authority to pay $1,500 a year for its maintenance.

Representative R. B. Blackburn, of Fulton, was present at the meeting Thursday, and united with Mr. Smith in speaking for the library. Mr. Blackburn also spoke against any bill aimed at the reduction of the salaries of the judges of Fulton's courts. Such a bill had been introduced by the commissioners and by County Attorney E. E. Pomeroy.

The feature of early morning play in the third round of the championship division was the match between Nelson Whitney, title-holder and George Aldridge, of Dallas. When this pair finished their work on the ninth green, and made the turn, the match stood all even.

However, the large gallery which followed the match had seen some excellent golf and the work of both players on the ninth hole was magnificent. Aldridge had the champion 2 down when he played the ninth hole, No. 6, was finished. Whitney rallied and took No. 7, and they halved No. 8. Then came the play for the ninth.

Whitney was well down the hill on his drive, and as usual in the middle of the fair course, Aldridge topped his tee shot, and the ball stopped far back up on the hill. An ambitious attempt to get across the neck of the lake landed him in the bog at the upper end of the lake, while Whitney had no difficulty in getting well up toward the green on his second. Aldridge made a fine recovery on a mashie shot out of the bog, and followed with another mashie that settled down within twelve inches of the cup for a sure 5. Whitney's approach was a run-up on the green that left him some twenty-five feet from the pin, shooting four. With a sure 5 in sight for his opponent he sank his long putt for a 4, winning the hole, and evening the match.

W. C. Perkins, another New Orleans crack, came out victorious again, eliminating C. B. Brady, of Montgomery, three and two.

Deater, of Dallas, the Texas champion, who yesterday eliminated George Adair, the Atlanta crack, continued his program and put Whitney Bouden, a member of the New Orleans contingent, out of the running, three and two.

The feature match of the morning's play was devoted in the second flight between two local players, Clarence Knowles and R. T. Jones. Jones eventually won the match, 3-2. This pair halved the first eight holes, and at no time was either more than one up. Knowles came into the match into extra hole by sinking a 25-foot putt on the 18th.

STORY

Carmen's Blue Rose

(Copyright, 1915, by W. W. Warner.)

CARMEN KEEN had been made to believe all her life that she was a person of supreme importance. Nothing was too good for her—nothing, indeed, quite good enough. "Unless you can have the best go without," had been her mother's invariable rule, whether Carmen was buying silk for her gowns or inviting people to a party. And Carmen abided by that rule. She must have the best because she herself represented the best.

The Keens were in moderate circumstances. They lived in a nice old house and kept one servant. Mrs. Keen had a genius for home making. She had been a Huntington, and she signed herself Grace Huntington Keen. The middle name acted upon the other two like a glowing electric light bulb between two candles. They became ineffective, for the name Huntington denoted the highest aristocracy, and was as well known in that locality as the president's. Unfortunately, it constituted the whole of Mrs. Keen's inheritance from her family. But she pretended that it was enough in itself. When she told Carmen that nothing was too good for her she reminded the girl that she was a descendant of the Huntingtons. It always had troubled Mrs. Keen that her only child was a girl. A son named Huntington Keen would have stood for much.

So it chanced that when one day Carmen found that she was thinking about getting more for Richard Keen than she should she was taken wholly by surprise. He had a flawless character, a lovable pair of trusty blue eyes and a buoyant nature, but he had no name, no fame and no money, and he had a stupid idea that he did not need them. What were they? A man who was honest and decent, whose father had never done anything he need be ashamed of and who was earning a hundred dollars a month with the prospect of getting more presently, ought to be a pretty happy fellow, he argued, and if he added to all these he could get a girl he wanted he had as good a little copy of heaven as could be obtained upon this earth.

Unfortunately, Carmen was the girl he wanted, and when she danced with him and smiled at him he had no idea that he was on ice which one day should refuse him a foothold and send him bumping upon his head. All the girls were nice to him, and why not Carmen? Therefore, he did not feel so timid as might be expected when he asked her to take his name and share his hundred dollars a month.

His was not the first proposal Carmen had received, but it was the first she had ever cared about. It astonished her to find how much she did care, and she turned so white that Richard put his arm about her.

"Don't, Richard," she said. "I can't— and here hope whispered, 'until you've earned some kind of success.' She paused miserably, thinking of her mother and all the other Huntingtons that had ever been."

Richard looked at her. "What do you mean by success, dear?" he asked quietly. And he did not withdraw his arm.

"On you must do something—big—worthy of yourself and of— Carmen choked.

"For you— returned Richard. "I see. Then what I have to offer isn't enough." He sighed. "Does that mean if I win success—your kind of success—I can have you?"

"Yes," breathed Carmen desperately. Richard withdrew his arm. He considered. "Well, I want you, Carmen, as I never thought I'd want any girl. And I'm willing to pay your price. I'm going away to get that success, but don't forget that I'm coming back after you when I've got it."

So he went away to some place he had heard of where success might be found and for two whole years Carmen never saw him nor heard from him except briefly. He was not clever as a writer of love letters.

She was not happy. She missed him as she had not believed she could miss anything on earth; she thought about him constantly and she wished sometimes that there had never been such a name as Huntington, so that she need not have sent him away at all. But things being as they were she could do nothing but wait. She waited in justice to herself do less than she had done.

One snowy afternoon when she had a cold and was fretting over the fact that Richard had not written in a long time, he came. Some mysterious intuition of his presence came to her from the very ringing of the bell. She opened the door and saw him.

They shook hands diffidently. She saw that he had changed. He looked older, as if he had lived through a great deal. The velvet of his coat collar was worn away and his suit was the same he had worn two years before.

He followed her into the living room and they sat down opposite each other. And they looked at each other—with a difference.

"When did you arrive, Richard?" Carmen asked.

"Just now. I'm just off the train."

He came at once because—that was our agreement." He swallowed hard. Then with a little laugh he held out his arm and snowed her the ragged edge of his cuff. "See that, Carmen? That's the way I've come back." He buried his face in his hands. Presently he went on speaking. "I failed from the very first. For a time I had hope of making good, and then I kept on just out of sheer determination. I lost all the money I had, and I couldn't make more. I'm not the money-making kind, more than a sainted man. I've come back to take my hundred a month again and be thankful for it. That's all. I stood up. 'You understand.'"

Carmen sat looking down at the handkerchief she was twisting in her trembling hands. Through her head ran a verse of Kipling's, which she had found an hour before in a book she

It's useless to advertise for lost faith. After a man has apostrophized what does it amount to?

A few hard cases are apt to make a lawyer case hardened.

He's a wise dentist who is able to draw his own conclusions.

Homemade advice is just as satisfactory as any of the other brands.

A difference between husband and wife is less dangerous than indifference.

Every girl thinks she could play the role of coquette all right if she cared to. No man will admit that he is as fair as jealous or suspicious as he really is.

A man isn't necessarily crooked because he is unable to keep his face straight.

In after years a man is apt to be ashamed of the life he might have led but won't.

Sometimes a man makes enough out of his regular business to keep a losing side issue afloat.

But, even at that, what our neighbors think about us isn't apt to be very far out of the way.

There are times when a man doesn't think he is getting his money's worth. One is when he invests in a monument.

A young man ought to save some money before he gets married, for he'll probably never get a chance afterward.

It is possible that all the world does love a lover—until things reach the stage where it becomes necessary to buy wedding presents for him.

But self-interest is more likely to vary a man's judgment than anything else.

There are women who put on airs because that is about all they have handy to put on.

Lots of them give more thought to the selection of a gown than of a husband.

Sometimes a man gets tired of being good and experiments in vice out of curiosity.

Self-preservation is the first law of nature and getting even with people is the second.

Beautiful Wedding of Miss Louise Black and Mr. John MacDougald

An event centering the cordial interest of a wide circle of friends was the marriage Wednesday evening of Miss Louise King Black and Mr. John MacDougald, which was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock at All Saints' Episcopal church.

The impressive and beautiful ceremony was performed by Bishop C. K. Nelson, assisted by Rev. W. W. Mann. The bride's only attendant was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Peters Black, of Asheville, N. C.

Mr. Dan MacDougald was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Mr. Frank Hardeman and Mr. Lamar Cobb Rucker, of Athens; Mr. Lloyd Bowers, of Columbus; Mr. Edward H. Inman, Mr. Turner Pitts, Mr. John S. Cohn, Mr. Preston Arkwright, Mr. Samuel Z. Weyman, Mr. Frank Callaway and Mr. Selden Jones.

The church was decorated with a wealth of foliage plants, handsome palms and ferns flanking the altar rail and effectively massed as the background for the wedding party. An arch of light-colored tapers cast a soft radiance over the clusters of stately white Easter lilies, the green foliage and tall vases of the waxen blossoms were placed at the entrance of the church. The pews were draped with streamers of white satin ribbon, caught with clusters of Easter lilies.

The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Peter Black, and was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Nelson. Her wedding gown was fashioned of rare Irish lace, made by convent nuns, which fell in graceful lines over a white satin foundation made round length. A lace cap encircled with a chapel of orange blossoms held the fluffy veil in place, and her bridal bouquet was a shower of the valley lilies.

The matron of honor wore a beautiful model of pale pink chiffon tulle, the corsage of lace draped with gleaming tulle. Her flowers were in shades of gladioli and anemones.

Mrs. Black wore a handsome gown of pearl gray charmeuse finished with bands of silver threaded lace, and Mrs. MacDougald was handsomely gowned in black charmeuse with overdresses of chiffon and touches of real lace.

The bridesmaids were Miss Frank Hardeman, of Athens, and Mrs. Edward H. Inman, were lovely toasts, Mrs. Hardeman wearing in black tulle and charmeuse, and Mrs. Inman wearing pale pink tulle over a satin foundation.

Reception Follows Ceremony.

The reception at home following the ceremony assembled the family connection and intimate friends with a number of out-of-town guests. Vases of Easter lilies and bridal wreath adorned the mantel and cabinets and palms and ferns were grouped artistically.

Delicate lavender and pink larkspur mingled the reception hall attractive, and sweet peas in rainbow hues transformed the dining room into colorful beauty. Waded poured coffee, and punch was served by a group of young girls, including Mary Stony, Mary Cohen, Jane Peters, of Garden City, and Frederica Wade.

PREVENTION

The main reason why corporations that have large lists of stockholders and float their paper on the open market have yearly audits by Certified Public Accountants is—

That the management and stockholders want to know definitely, not only what the business has produced, but that the statement is correct.

When trouble comes the accountant's services are first in demand.

Why not beforehand, as a prevention instead of a cure?

BRYAN INVEIGHS AGAINST MILITARY PREPAREDNESS

Declares Strong Armament Does Not Prevent but Causes War

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, June 17.—Asserting preparedness provokes rather than prevents war, and that the upheaval in Europe was a result of the false philosophy that "might makes right," former Secretary Bryan today, in a second of his series of three statements on "The Causeless War," submits an argument against military preparation by the United States and praises the course of President Wilson in the international emergency.

"If any nation is without excuse for entering into a mad rivalry with the intelligent nations in preparation for war it is the United States," says Mr. Bryan. "We are protected on either side by thousands of miles of ocean and this protection is worth more to us than any number of battleships."

"We have an additional protection in the fact, known to every one, that we have the men with whom to form an army of defense if we are ever attacked, and it is known also that we would have the money, one more money, than we would have had if all the surplus earnings of the people had been invested in armaments. We not only do not need additional preparation, but we are fortunate in not having it, since it seems impossible for a nation to have what is called preparedness without having along with it a disposition to use its preparedness on the slightest provocation."

"The leading participants in the present war are the nations that were best prepared, and I fear it would have been difficult for us to keep out of this war if we had been as well prepared as they."

"Happy for our nation that we have in the White House at this time a president who believes in settling the world's good example, instead of following the bad example which it sets in this matter. What an unspeakable misfortune it would have been, if in such hour as this, the nation had been under the leadership of a president inclined by the false philosophy which has plunged Europe into the abyss of war."

In discussing the cause of the European conflict, Mr. Bryan in a lengthy analysis argues that it is no war of religion or families, and declares: "I correctly analyzed the situation. I saw that the nation had been misled by the false philosophy of might makes right."

Leading up to his argument against preparedness for war by the United States, Mr. Bryan says:

"We dare not trust the peace of the world to those who spend their time in getting ready for wars that should never come. Half the energy employed in preparing for war would be effectively prevented war if used in propagating the principles which make for peace. Instead of preventing war, preparedness provokes war, because it is impossible to coerce the people into hearing the burdens incident to continuous and increasing preparation without cultivating hatred as if it were a natural virtue. There must be some one to fear; some other preparing nation that must be represented as plotting for war. How can preparedness prevent war if all prepare? Each step taken by one nation toward more complete preparation."

GOVERNOR'S DECISION IS EXPECTED THIS WEEK

Howard Closes His Discussion and Governor Works Late on Case

The hearing before Governor Stanton on Frank's petition ended Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Attorney W. M. Howard, of Augusta, concluded his long and powerful argument in behalf of Mr. Frank.

Concluding his masterful argument, Mr. Howard left the case in Governor Stanton's hands with the following statement:

"In behalf of Leo Frank, his kindred and his friends, we as his counsel profess to you our profoundest thanks for the patience with which you have heard this plea. On behalf of the people in Georgia, who believe that, in patience and in fairness, right can be established and enthroned over wrong, we thank you. And we all thank God, the maker of us all, that He has, in the person of your excellency, sanctified a legally tutored mind and a courageous heart to witness His will in this case."

"You have been to us—in our assurance, that you possess those qualities, by the guidance, as we believe, of Divine Providence—the pillar of cloud by day and you have been to us the pillar of fire by night, for we have come to the very valley of the shadow of death in God and we will be with Him in His working through a clear tutored mind, and through a strong, courageous heart, converted to uphold the dignity of the laws of this great state in justice, in moderation, and in mercy, like our hope. I thank you."

THREE MEN ARRESTED FOR WRECKING TRAIN

(By Associated Press.)
BIRMINGHAM, June 17.—Three men, charcoal burners and peddlers, W. S. Henry, Amos Smith and Archie Lee, have been arrested by Chief of Police Fagan, City Detectives Eubanks and Crenshaw, and Special Agents J. M. Neuffer and M. Welch, of the Seaboard Air Line railroad, on a charge of murder in connection with the wrecking of the New York fast passenger train on the Seaboard nine miles from Birmingham last Wednesday night, which caused the deaths of three men and several passengers hurt.

The detectives say an incrimination had been made. Another arrest is to be made. The men under charge reside in various parts of the city where a rail was removed from the track causing the wreck.

News excites the other nations to additional purchases of new letties, until all have exhausted their productive industries and mortared their moral progress.

"The doctrine that preparedness prevent war will not stand the test of logic and the confederation in Europe shows that it falls when tested by examination toward more complete preparation."
